

APOSTOLIC AND THE PROPHETIC COVERING

APOSTLE R. C. Stearns

Passing of the Power and Authority

The Mantle
{To cover and to make great}

GOD BEING MIGHTY IN HOLINESS
{His Demonstrated Power}

1stKings 19:19

AN APOSTOLIC COVERING

Elijah found Elisha by divine direction, though a great man (as it appears by his feast 1 Kings 19:21), master of the ground, and oxen, and servants. Yet he did not think it any disparagement to him to follow. An honest calling in the world does not at all put us out of the way of our heavenly calling, any more than it did Elisha, who was taken from following the plough to feed Israel and to sow the seed of word, as the apostles were taken from fishing to catch men. Elisha enquired not after Elijah, but was anticipated with this call, ordained before time was.

Elijah did but cast his mantle upon him, in token of friendship, that he would take him under his care and tuition as he did under his mantle, and be one with him. Being clothed with his anointing, to be as his teacher.

Let those who desire to embrace this anointing sit down and count the cost, and make up his own mind in the liberty of his will and not by constraint, but cheerfully. Elijah did not stay for him, lest he should seem to compel him, but left him to his own choice, and he soon arose, went after him, and not only associated with him, but ministered to him as his servitor, pour water on his hands, (2Kings 3:11).

It is of great advantage to young ministers to spend time under the direction of those that are aged and experienced, whose years teach wisdom, and not to think much, if occasion be, to minister to them. Those that would be fit to teach must have time to learn; and those that hope hereafter to rise and rule must be willing at first to stoop and serve.
